Allen-Kirkpatrick

Miss Berlie Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, Hope, Ark., and Charles Kirkpatrick, L. C. 3 of the U. S. Navy and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Kirkpatrick of Bullard, Texas, were united in marriage in Lakeview Chapel at Great Lakes Naval Training Base in Great Lakes, Illinois at 11 o'clock in the morning June 15, 1957.

The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Pittman of the U. S. Naval Training Base.

Berlie and Charles will be at Great Lakes for six weeks where he is going to Cylo School, following this training the couple will be stationed in Key West, Florida.

Graham May Have Regular TV Program

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham may be thinking of a regular television pulpit, once his New York crusade is over.

Although the evangelist hasn't said so, there have been hints in that direction. And he says he has been deeply impressed by the results of his current weekly TV appearances.

A weekly flood of 50,000 letters from across the country has followed the three Saturday night crusade meetings televised so far. Many are from persons saying that hearing him won them to Christianity.

"The possibilities are tremendous," he said last night.

Graham has said he has other plans in this area after the crusade closes July 21, but isn't ready to make them public. A crusade official, asked last night if Graham might continue his TV preaching beyond the crusade, said: "It's liable to be. You can't

Decision in Korea Not All Wanted

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States decision to strengthen its forces in Korea with modern equipment seems to fall somewhat short of what the Pentagon apparently planned only a few weeks ago.

The decision, transmitted today to the North Korean and Chinese Communists, calls for a buildup of nuclear strength involving only air power at this time. No atomic weapons are being given to the two American Army divisions standing guard at the truce line.

There was no immediate official explanation for this apparent modification of plans for countering the "imbalance" of military strength caused by Communist violations of truce terms. These terms barred introduction of new types of weapons into Korea and permitted only replacement of worn-out gear.

ALC Faced With Medical Proves

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Proposals calling for investigations of two state medical institutions faced the Arkansas Legislative Council which met here today.

State Sen. Lee Bearden had asked a probe of the 13-million-dollar State Medical Center to determine what improvements are needed.

An investigation of the controversial Booneville Tuberculosis Sanatorium was requested by State Sen. Arlie Gregory of North Little Rock, a former patient at the institution.

The council was expected to refer both proposals to Bearden and Gregory, as well as other proposals, to its committees for study.

tell. There's a terrific interest in this thing."

As for the Madison Square Garden crusade, attendance for the past week has been down an average of more than 1,000 below the near-capacity level of the previous four weeks, but officials said it's a customary — but temporary — mid-way dip.

"It's a normal lull," said Willis G. Haymaer, a Graham team executive. He said a small drop about halfway through crusades has been a characteristic pattern, then the numbers shoot up again.

Even with the slackening off the nightly audiences still are huge ones—16,000 last night—and the record for attendance and "decisions for Christ" surpasses anything yet in Graham's career of evangelism.

"We've seen twice as many give their lives to Christ in the five weeks as in any whole crusade we've ever conducted in the United States," he said.

Largest previous number was 9,000 in six weeks in Portland, Ore., compared with the 20,611 here in five weeks, 359 of them last night. The total also exceeds that for a six-week period of Graham's London crusade, where he often held several meetings a day instead of only one.

In his sermon, based on Daniel 5 and Galatians 6:7, Graham said that many people feel that "somehow God will overlook" their sins.

In self-pride, he said, "you think that you're a pretty good guy, and that God's judgment will fall on the other man, but not on you."

"But God says: Be sure your sin will find you out."

"You can go on sinning and think that at the last moment God will forgive you. But if you have opportunity after opportunity to come to Christ, and refuse time after time, the chance of finally receiving him on your deathbed are remote."

"How many of you are headed to judgment and destruction and hell because of your refusal to come to God?"

"How many men—strong men—have laughed at the idea of Christ. Then when they lay dying, they cringe, or like babies and scream 'Have mercy, oh God!'"

DOUBLE-CROSSED—Even though she's obviously been double-crossed, 18-month-old Carolyn Brian relaxes with a Boxer and Dachshund for company, after arriving in New York from France. The lot, born in Nuremberg, Germany, was adopted by Lt. Cmdr. Leonard G. Brian, of Philadelphia, who is being transferred to Washington from Cannes, France. The "XX" is the symbol for military baggage and was put on by her dad "just in case she gets lost."

DOROTHY DIX
He's Kind and Considerate But Not the Great Lover

Dear Dorothy Dix: Five years ago I fell in love with Amos. We were almost engaged when I began to see flaws in him. He wasn't ready to give up being a gay party boy and settle down, and I doubt if he will ever be. So we broke off.

Then I met Jules. He's kind, generous and considerate. We're engaged and I know my future will be happy. My only doubt is that I don't feel the same passionate love for Jules as I did for Amos.

JOAN
Dear Joan: You don't find carbon copies anywhere in nature. Why should you expect them in love? The passionate love you felt for Amos has given way to the deeper, more mature love you have for Jules.

Be sure of two things before you marry—that all feeling for Amos is thoroughly dead and that you can give Jules at least as much as he's giving you in love, consideration, loyalty and trust.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Since I entered high school last September, I've been dating a very attractive junior. Last week we were discussing marriage and he said it was about time we knew each other better. If we planned to get married someday. He said my idea that we must wait until we're married is silly.

WORRIED
Dear worried: Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for my leaflet on "The petting problem." It may convince your boy friend that he's wrong.

I won't tell you to drop him, but if you've faced with the ultimatum of giving in or losing him, which will you choose? You'll be sorry later if you elect surrender.

Dear Dorothy Dix: In the past month I've had five dates with a dental student. I know he has a long pull ahead. He has asked me to continue dating, but I don't feel like waiting around for him to get settled and serious. I told him so and haven't heard from him since.

CLEO
Dear Cleo: All the guy wanted was a fun friend and you have him saddled with a wife and kids before he's pulled a tooth. No wonder he fled in terror. If you want a quick marriage, do your husband-hunting among established men, not students.

Oriental Type Flu Hits Newport Sailors

NEWPORT, R. I. (UP)—The Navy today reported a "mild outbreak" of oriental influenza at the Newport Naval Base.

The Navy said the flu which has swept the Far East has been detected on eight of 110 Newport-based ships since June 3.

An estimated 500 personnel have been stricken the Navy said.

The Navy statement said: "The outbreak (is) mild since only 2 per cent of 27,500 sailors in the Newport-based ships have been affected."

"After an intricate series of laboratory tests the flu virus was determined this week to be the same type as is spreading through the Asiatic countries and along the West Coast of the United States."

The outbreak is being taken and quarantined to Washington, D.C., by the Navy. This morning Rhode Island Health Department authorities met with Navy medical officers to discuss the outbreak.

The Navy Department does not intend to institute quarantine measures unless government or state health authorities deem it necessary to start quarantining for civilians in the affected area.

"Since the illness caused by the influenza is mild, it is unlikely that this quarantine will be ordered."

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Maj. Gen. Raymond F. Huff said today more than 14,500 Louisiana Army and National Guardsmen will undergo intensive training in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Wyoming during July and August.

Huff said the largest encampment will take place at Ft. Polk, La., Aug. 1-10, involving 6,700 Louisiana and 3,300 Arkansas Guardsmen.

SUBSTITUTE DOCTOR

© 1957 by Elizabeth Seifert. Distributed by NEA Service. By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

THE STORY: Dr. Garde Shelton is a "substitute doctor" who has replaced Dr. Kurt Killard in a clinic. Kurt was convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence and many people believe he was innocent.

XVIII
Apart from the casual get-togethers at the end of each day, staff meetings were regularly scheduled in the doctors' room of the hospital.

On the last meeting in June someone mentioned that Shelton had been with them now for six weeks and perhaps was in a position to state an opinion of their setup.

"Well," he said finally, "as you know, I trained in a center about as big and as complex as medical centers can be. I came here with great misgivings as to my ability to cope with conditions which, I felt, had to exist in a place such as this appeared to be on paper."

"I needn't tell you how wrong I was. Here everything is of the best. That's true in the surgery, the delivery room, the nursery, the lab and the kitchen. The personnel is hand-picked for training and performance."

"And I am ready to say that this kind of practice is probably the sort that every doctor dreams of as being ideal." He paused again and saw that Cornet was about to speak.

"Except . . .," said Dr. Shelton. And laughed to see the way the smiles faded and jaws dropped. "Except you aren't a clinic at all. And I would like to see that changed. That is, of course, that we well might conduct a free children's and prenatal clinic here."

"Now, in the cities, such services are given — and taken — as a matter of course. I've heard Dr. Flynn say that the children of the poor get better medical care than do the children from the rich, because from before birth the mothers attend the clinics."

"I'd like at least to try offering such a service here—maybe, if they were given — and taken — as a matter of course. I've heard Dr. Flynn say that the children of the poor get better medical care than do the children from the rich, because from before birth the mothers attend the clinics."

wouldn't be used. You probably know more than I do about the behavior and reaction of these people. But still, having your permission, I would like to try such a clinic service for the children. It all ties up to my reasons for going into medicine. I feel that it is a calling for a man who likes people and wants to be as helpful and useful to them as possible."

He had not spoken emotionally. This was the thing in which he believed, and he was prepared to argue for his cause. He was arguing for it — and when he finished the doctors who listened knew that he had argued. They glanced at each other and laughed. Little. At themselves, not at Dr. Shelton.

"Go along with your clinic!" shouted Cornet. "Of course! We all of us could do a little more giving than we do. And certainly you can set this thing up if you want to. I'll tell the newspaper to come to you for a story on it."

"Well, of course," snapped Rubie. "Your idea is a really good one, Shelton. If you can manage to staff your clinic service."

"I think I can. I'll need one R.N., and I think I can manage that. Then with a little outside volunteer help to keep records, hold down the kids, talk to the mothers, send out cards — There would be some social service desirable, home visits and so on."

On Saturday he dropped in to see Nan, who was mureographing bulletins in the church basement. They took the bulletins up to the church vestibule and then started home, walking at a leisurely pace. It was then that he spoke to her about his well-baby clinic, speaking again with enthusiasm. She listened intently, her eyes on his face. "And I thought," he concluded, "that perhaps I could get you to come in and attend to the clerical work."

"Oh!" He glanced at her, and her face was pink. But as he watched, it went white and a stubborn look of refusal came into her eyes, settled about her lips. "You wouldn't want to," he asked incredulously.

"No," she said flatly. "I couldn't. I—I wouldn't want to." He waited for her to say more. She did not.

"It wouldn't have to be Saturday morning. . . ."

She whirled on him. "Let drop it, shall we I—just believe me—I don't want to help you."

He couldn't believe his ears.

His mother was to be gone for the weekend, and by four for afternoon the big house seemed quiet and empty. Nan had said something about bright work, and Garde could get in a swim. He put on his trunk and sneakers, pulled on a sport shirt and cut down across the lawn, which he'd been mowing, to the club beach.

He heard his name called, and turned. It was Valley in cone-shaped hat, dark glasses and a huge terry robe — but he still could identify Valley, and he quickly made his way to her between the beach chairs, the children, the abandoned sun lotion bottles and other stuff littering the sand.

"Did you bring any pillows down with you?" she asked, when he was close.

He laughed. "What was that?" She held up her right hand. "I just found myself a vicious piece of driftwood," she told him.

Garde knelt beside her and examined the torn hand.

"The ungrateful thing," Valley chattered, "snagged my best typing finger."

Summer TV Just Films of Old Shows

By CHARLES MURGER

NEW YORK (U) - In the summer dog days a television reporter lives partially on his memories. Everybody - well, nearly everybody - has left town. Every program - well, nearly every program - has gone to film.

The other day a reporter took to remembering his interviews with numerous persons in television over the past year - the dazzling and dull, the delightful and dubious. He remembered:

Everybody, absolutely everybody in television, likes to get his name in the newspaper - except Arthur Godfrey. The most eager are the least known persons; the least eager are the best known persons. But when a well-known person starts to slip, he's as eager for an interview as the least-known fledgling.

There seem to be about a million press agents with television accounts in New York. Some are extremely intelligent. Some are hopelessly incompetent.

Britons, as a nationality, are the most difficult to interview - except Noel Coward. Their reserve can be glacial.

Executives, as a working classification, are the easiest to interview. Their thoughts are well organized. Their greatest failing, when they trust a reporter, is that they like to go "off the record" and forget to come back on the record.

Writers, composers and similar creative minds do not live in ivory towers. Almost invariably they say something interesting. Musicians, on the other hand, usually live in a world of their own.

Nearly all beautiful television actresses are intelligent. But blue and gray-eyed actresses have a sharper sense of humor than dark-eyed actresses.

Producers are the biggest name-droppers in the business. They pretend never to be mad at anybody.

Directors, on the other hand, like to pretend to be mad at everybody. But when they start to talk they say only nice things.

There's not much point in talking to an actor before noon. He's usually too sleepy - except Robert Young.

In general the people who know most about the workings of television - what is good and what is bad and how the medium works - are the relatively obscure: the technicians and script editors, the assistants and arrangers. They make the stars.

3 Polio Cases in Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La., (U) - Health authorities reported three new cases of polio in Caddo Parish today, bringing the total for this year to 26 compared with 10 for the same time last year.

Dr. W. J. Sandigge, director of the Caddo-Shreveport Health Unit, said the latest cases involved two Negroes and one white victim. None had had the Salk vaccine. All three cases were described as non-paralytic.

Of the 26 cases reported so far in Caddo, six were paralytic. Five of the last year's 10 cases were paralytic.

Dr. Sandigge said health authorities are investigating reports of several other new cases of polio.

Magnolia Fire Damage $350,000

MAGNOLIA, (UP) - Two walls of a two-story building gutted by a spectacular $350,000 downtown fire here Wednesday tumbled onto the roof of a nearby building causing thousands of dollars more damage last night.

The two-story giant building was one of two buildings housing a number of firms burned out during an eight-hour battle. Firemen were inside the shell putting out embers when one wall collapsed into a second wall sending thousands of pounds of bricks and rubble crashing to the roof of the woodward building next door.

A 55 foot section of the roof caved in destroying stock of the Block Hardware store, operated by Howard Groves.

Groves said he could not give an accurate estimate of damage until a check of his inventory was completed, but said the damage would be around $40,000 and $50,000.

No injuries were reported.

Trapped Under House Exterminator Dies

LITTLE ROCK (UP) - A 42-year-old termite exterminator trapped underneath a house died yesterday while firemen with oxygen equipment worked feverishly to revive and free him.

Dr. Howard A. Dishongh, Pulaski county coroner, tentatively ruled Gerald P. Scates died of a heart attack, but planned an autopsy today.

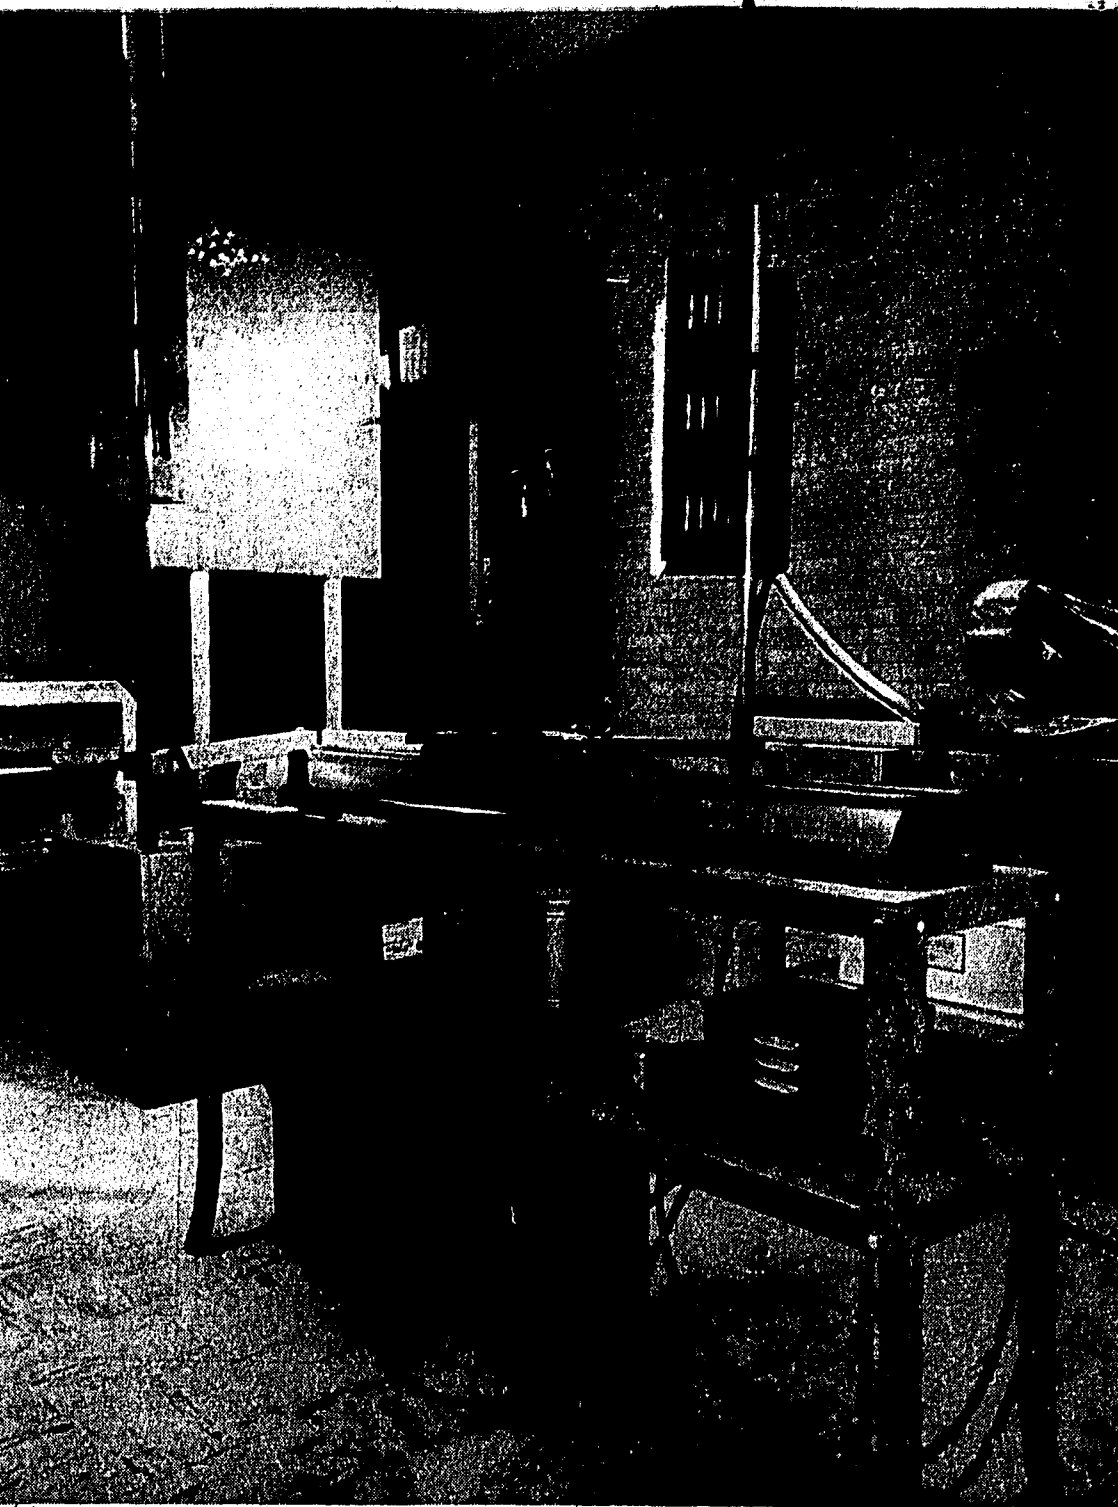

A companion working with Scates found him trapped and called the fire department rescue unit. Firemen first believed the man had come in contact with a live wire underneath the house.

However, Dr. Dishongh said he could find no burns on the man's body that would have been caused by electrocution.

Scates is survived by his wife and two sons.

Each year attracted thousands of visitors.

Copying Machine 'Builds Up' Old Photos So Star Can Publish Them

Editor's Note: No more old-time photos will be accepted for publication at the present time. All pictures accepted so far have been processed and owners are asked to make sure they have received their originals safely. Most of them have been returned but a few are still at The Star office awaiting identification and claiming.

Ever since the installation of its leased Fairchild electronic engraving machine last January The Star has been publishing old photographs from family files in southwest Arkansas - some of them dating back to the 1890's.

The printed reproductions have been just as good as the modern news pictures in the big dailies coming into Hope - and the machine shown above is the explanation. It is an all-metal photo-copying stand. The old pictures are put up on the copy-board, re-photographed by one of The Star's Speed Graphic cameras, and the negative is then enlarged (or reduced) to engraving size on high-contrast paper. The result is a picture superior to the faded original - and one of the new prints is given the owner of the original.

Photo equipment alone, however, is only part of the story in getting good newspaper reproduction. Before installing its engraving machine The Star spent $2,000 perfecting the impression controls on its Duplex press, of which $1,100 was for a factory expert's labor.

Frank Kapler. Also, the newspaper regretfully got printing circulars on the big press. The decision had to be either for circulars or top-quality printing on pictures - and pictures got the decision.

Specifications of the copy machine were developed by A. H. Washburn, editor, George W. Hosmer, mechanical superintendent, located a small lathe-bed in a catalog and the same was ordered through Duffie Hardware Co. The lathe provided forward and lateral movement for the camera mount, but not a vertical riser - necessary for proper centering of copy from the camera position.

So Arkansas Machine & Specialty Co. added the camera mount and vertical screw movement, and the metal copy-board. The pair of lamp-houses, most critical of all items, came from W. Schiller & Co., St. Louis. The Star's long-time photo supplier.

The machine will copy anything from the smallest photo to a poster 18 by 24 inches to newspaper full page, printed portion only, is 16 1/2 by 20 1/2.

The camera shown in the picture is The Star's original 4x5 Speed Graphic, bought at Gibson's Drugstore in March 1936 to photograph the material for the 1936 Arkansas Centennial Edition, which carried $425 worth of engravings. The old camera, now in its 22nd year, is better than ever. In its lifetime it has had its bellows replaced twice, the original shutter has been replaced with a 1936 synchroized shutter, and last January it got a new back which enables it to accept all modern Speed Graphic accessories. About all that is left of the original 1914 camera is the box and the original lens. The F 4.5 Kodak Antistigmat of 6 1/2-inch focal length, which has no equal for sharpness in copy work.

The picture was taken with the newspaper's new Speed Graphic bought last January, using its 3 1/2-inch wide angle lens.

All the old photographs now in hand have been processed and engraved, and the last of them will be published within the next week.

or so. The Star's publication schedule this was interrupted by the 3% Sales Tax Petition signature campaign, the editor and C. M. (Pod) Rogers, Jr., circulation manager, being gone eight weeks.

Managing Editor Paul H. Jones and Advertising Manager Donal Parker covered news pictures in the interval - but the tedious processing of the old-timers had to wait until the full staff was on hand. And this job has now been completed.

The Star wants to thank everyone who loaned us these fine old pictures - and we want to be sure the originals are safely returned. If you haven't gotten yours please check with The Star office at once.

Jap Reds Try to Storm U. S. Embassy

TOKYO (U) - About 150 leftist Japanese students tried to storm past a 400-man police guard in front of the American Embassy today to protest against U. S. nuclear tests, the Girard case and American occupation of Okinawa.

Forming a human wall, the armed Japanese police turned back three waves of shouting, elbowing and shouting students. No one appeared hurt in the scuffle, but two students were arrested for slugging police.

Finally the police allowed a five-man student delegation into the main embassy building. The group spent nearly an hour voicing their demands that the United States quit testing nuclear weapons, give Okinawa back to Japan and let Japan try GI William S. Girard first Secretary William B. Coolidge and second Secretary Richard L. Sneider heard them out.

After the delegation's return, the demonstrators marched off to police headquarters to seek the release of their two arrested companions.

Flood Associations to Join Forces

KAUNAS CITY, Kan. (U) - The Missouri-Arkansas-Basin Flood Control and Conservation Association voted yesterday to combine with the Mississippi Valley Association.

The directors of Mo-Ark approved the move, made at the invitation of Wade Hallows of Greenview, Miss., president of the big Mississippi organization.

Mo-Ark was formed after the 1951 flood and has about 15,000 members in Missouri, Kansas and Iowa. The Mississippi association is 34 years old and includes 63 local units plus a big industrial membership in 23 states.

Under the new plan, Mississippi will open an office in Kansas City about Aug. 1 under management of Lou Ramorum, Tulsa, executive secretary of Mo-Ark.

Mississippi's head office is in St. Louis. Other offices are in Omaha, Chicago, New Orleans and Washington.

The highest peak in Greece is Mount Olympus 2,930 feet.

Two to Die in Louisiana Chair

ANGOLA, La., (U) - Two Negroes are scheduled to die in the electric chair shortly after midnight tonight for the 1954 slaying of a Shreveport City Hall custodian with his own revolver.

The prisoners, James Bush, 26, and Joseph Washington, 34, were moved under heavy guard to the state penitentiary here yesterday.

Sheriff's deputies at the Caddo Parish Jail in Shreveport said they had foiled a desperate plot a few hours earlier by a third condemned Negro, Donald Edwards, 22, for the trio to shoot their way to freedom in Shreveport.
